Italy, Yugoslavia Settle Bitter Dispute on Trieste

6 New Polio Cases Reported In Area

Six more diagnosed and suspected polio cases were reported today in the Salem district, pushing the mounting county total to 28 cases. There have been five fatalities.

The young sons of Mr. and Mrs. Willie Smith of 780 Euclid St. were taken to St. Elizabeth's Hospital in Youngstown Sunday as suspected polio cases. Wayne Smith, aged one, was diagnosed this morning as a polio case.

He showed symptoms of a leg weakness when admitted. His brother, Joseph, 8, is suffering from a stiff neck and is under observation.

Two baby brothers from RD 3, Salem also were admitted to St. Elizabeth's Monday where one has been diagnosed as a polio case and the other is a suspected case.

Donald Huston, 14 months old, has been diagnosed as a polio victim and his brother, Bruce, who will be two weeks old Thursday is under observation. They are the sons of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Huston of RD 3, Salem.

The Hustons are neighbors of Mrs. George Phillips Jr. of the Depot Rd., who died Sunday of polio. Another new polio case learned this morning is Cynthia Dowd, 7½ daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Dowd of 1955 Overlook Drive.

A second grader at St. Paul school, she became ill last Thursday and her illness was diagnosed as polio on Friday. However, she is showing improvement. A sister, Deborah aged 3½, was given gamma globulin injections.

Timothy J. Kauffman, 5, son of Mr. and Mrs. Adin Kaufman of 7th St. Columbia, is in Salem City Hospital for observation as a possible polio case.

As the county toll climbed medical technicians continued today to wage war against the polio virus with the administration of gamma globulin to more United Local School pupils.

Dr. George B. Pantera, county health commissioner, who is heading the program said 85 students Monday and that between 100-200 were expected to appear today.

He said almost 200 pupils were turned away from closed United School yesterday when the globulin supply ran short.

Some 6,000 cubic centimeters of the preventive was expected to arrive from the State Health Department today to continue the inoculation program. The commissioner said about 1,200 cc. were used yesterday.

Health department facilities and personnel are overtaxed as a constant stream of phone calls from harried parents seek information about their children. The bulk of the calls come from the New Garden area.

Mrs. Edna Gausser, executive secretary of the County Health Department, said at least 50 calls came through her office Monday, mostly inquiring about the precious globulin, about which there is much erroneous thinking.

Health officials point out that the substance is not a panacea to end all polio ills. Rather "doubt still exists in the medical profession as to the effectiveness of gamma globulin," Dr. Pantera stated.

Salem's City Hospital and Central Clinic received requests from worried parents yesterday for the gamma globulin, but the hospital's referred the callers to Dr. Pantera's office.

Salem druggists reported yesterday that a conflict of careers caused the rift in the nine-month marriage.

Actually Giesler made the understatement of the year. This was a romance that Hollywood never expected to get to matrimony's first base, so little did the two have in common.

The lawyer said there would be no alimony and no community property in the settlement. He said both parties remain friendly.

Giesler denied reports that recent sidewalk photos of Marilyn's skirt billowing over her head during movie making in New York had anything to do with the split.

This breakup, unexpected as it was, is an old, old story. And it again raises the question: Why can't Hollywood marriages last? There are many reasons, but career trouble is the most prevalent.

The board will convene at 8 to night.

PARTING OF THE WAYS—Marilyn Monroe, the nation's No. 1 pin-up girl, and Joe DiMaggio called it quits on their 10-month-old marriage. The blond star blamed the separation on "incompatibility" resulting from different career interests. They are shown above in happier times.

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Today's day that Marilyn Monroe asks waivers on Joe DiMaggio, the former Yankee slugger.

The busy blonde, the movies' hottest property since the Warner studio fires, is slated to file suit for divorce.

Her attorney, Jerry Giesler, said yesterday that a conflict of careers caused the rift in the nine-month marriage.

The board will convene at 8 to night.

Supt. E. S. Kerr expressed regret at the loss to Salem schools of a man who is bettering himself but decided to wait one day before acting on the resignation.

President Al Fitch said the move came as a surprise to some of the board members and felt the board should not act hastily on the matter. He urged the special session instead of settling the resignation last night.

Early told the board he definitely did not want to leave Salem, having been here 18 years, but pointed out he was trained for superintendency and wished to go into such a position.

The board will convene at 8 to night.

NEW WATERFORD — Mrs. Eleanor Bretz of N. State St. has been named clerk of the Board of Education here, to fill the unexpired term of Charles E. Koch, who resigned.

Mr. Koch, a teller in the New Waterford bank, said the pressure of business duties prevented him from properly fulfilling the duties of clerk. Mr. Koch, however, continues as a member of the school board.

Mrs. Bretz' appointment is effective as of Oct. 1.

Fifty-two persons attended the school board-sponsored get-acquainted dinner party for school teachers and other personnel Friday evening in the school cafeteria. Games were played later in the gymnasium.

Nations Agree On Division Of Free Territory

Pact To Close Last Gap In Western Defense Against Reds

ROME (AP)—Italy and Yugoslavia formally settled their bitter nine-year dispute over the Trieste free territory today and agreed on its division between them.

The division virtually coincides with the occupation boundaries established in 1945, with Italy getting the key Adriatic port of Trieste and Yugoslavia retaining the zone she has occupied since World War II.

The settlement, signed in London at noon today and announced simultaneously in Rome and Belgrade, is expected to make possible the closing of the last gap in the Western defense line across Southeastern Europe. Although both Italy and Yugoslavia are strongly anti-Russian, they had refused to cooperate militarily in the past because of their rivalry over Trieste.

The next step may be inclusion of Italy in the Balkan antiaggression alliance Yugoslavia, Greece and Turkey signed in August.

The agreement was a triumph for U.S.-British diplomacy, which prodded the two Adriatic Sea neighbors through long negotiations in London, Washington, New York, Rome and Belgrade.

The two nations' ambassadors to Britain, Manlio Brosio of Italy and Vladimir Velebit, signed the accord in the British capital. It was there that the agreement was drafted into its final form.

"A great day for Italy," said Premier Mario Scelba as he left his Cabinet formally of the agreement this morning. "I am very happy," he added. "Finally we are going back into Trieste." Shortly after the Cabinet approved the agreement and instructed Brosio to sign it.

At midmorning, Italy was taking the news of the agreement calmly, despite Fascist and Communist opposition to the settlement. Extraordinary police forces were on duty in Rome, Trieste and all major cities.

The Fascists oppose the compromise because Italy doesn't get all the territory. The Reds are against it because Moscow is.

Under the agreement:

1. The port of Trieste and the rest of Zone A, except for a small strip on the southern border near Lazzaretto, go to Italy. The zone has been under British-American military occupation since World War II.

2. Zone B, along with the small Lazzaretto strip, becomes Yugoslav. The zone had been under Yugoslav control since Marshal Tito's partisans swarmed in on May 1, 1945.

3. The 3,000 Italians in the Lazzaretto strip can return to Italian-controlled territory and be compensated for their holdings if they desire. Some already have begun moving.

4. Yugoslavia will have full access to the port of Trieste.

5. Minority rights are guaranteed for both Italians in Yugoslav territory and Yugoslavs in Italian territory.

6. The 4,000 American and 3,000 British troops in Zone A will be withdrawn in stages over the next three weeks.

7. The United States and Britain in a supplementary statement announced they consider the settlement as final. Neither Italy nor Yugoslavia officially waived its claim to that portion of the territory assigned the other. However, both actually expect the new boundaries to exist indefinitely.

Students Battle Desegregation

Baltimore Calls For Probe Into Unrest

By The Associated Press

Some students who demonstrated against admitting Negro youngsters to public schools in Washington planned today to discuss their grievances with school authorities while a grand jury probe of student unrest was called for in Baltimore.

In New York, Thurgood Marshall, special counsel of the National Assn. for the Advancement of Colored People, asked Atty. Gen. Herbert Brownell Jr. to make it clear that "the full force of the federal government" stands behind efforts to desegregate the schools.

Marshall said demonstrations over desegregation at Milford, Del., Baltimore and Washington were to threaten local school officials and prevent Negro children from "exercising their constitutionally guaranteed rights to attend desegregated schools."

"This unlawful action has come about solely by reason of the provocation of an organization known as the National Assn. for the Advancement of White People," Marshall said in a telegram to Brownell last night.

In Washington, a group of White students arranged to meet with Principal Richard E. Bish of the McKinley school and discuss problems arising from the Supreme Court ruling outlawing segregation in the public schools.

The students were among 150

Speaker Secured For Veterans' Day Here

Robert Bangham, president of Buckeye Boys State, has been secured as speaker for the Salem celebration of the annual Veterans' Day, November 11, program chairman John Herman told Charles Carey Post 56 of the American Legion last night.

The legion, at its first October meeting, voted to participate in the local civil defense program. Members will meet with civil defense chairman William Wark shortly for CD assignments.

Scout committee secretary Bob Templeton reported that charter membership for the newly-formed scout explorer post had been completed with 12 charter members signed.

Membership in the unit is still open for boys between 14 and 18. Templeton said the scouts are looking for a place to set up a car wash to raise funds.

Vice Commander Ernest Moser reported more than 100 memberships are paid up for 1955 against a quota of 350. He added that a drive for new members will be conducted between October 20 and November 11. He extended an invitation to all veterans to join the local legion post.

Commander Clifford Whinnery announced that the Legion Institute class will meet at the post home Monday Oct. 11 at 8 p.m.

Colored movies of the Quaker City Band and Little Leaguers were shown after the business session.

The next regular meeting of the post is Monday, October 18.

7 Plead Guilty At Arraignment

23 Persons Appear Before Judge Sharp

Twenty-three defendants charged with diverse crimes, were arraigned in Common Pleas Court Monday with two asking Judge Joel H. Sharp to pass immediate sentence. Five others pleading guilty and requesting probation and 16 pleading innocent.

Seven others indicted by the September grand jury failed to appear.

Alfred Tucker, 19, of Bloomfield was committed to the state penitentiary for 1-15 years on a charge of burglary while George L. Talbot, his alleged companion-in-crime, of Wellsville pleaded guilty and asked for probation.

The Bloomfield youth admitted to a breaking and entering at an East Liverpool gun store June 26 and stealing ammunition and guns. Talbot's bond was fixed at $1,000.

William Paxson of Salem RD, charged with auto theft and driving a car without the owner's permission, was the other defendant given immediate sentence. He will concurrently serve 1 to 20-year terms on each count.

Miss Josephine McDole of Midland and Herman (Bobby) Donahue of Hammondsville, charged with two burglary counts, both pleaded not guilty on each count. An innocent plea was also entered by the Midland woman on an accusation of forgery.

She and Donahue were indicted for robbing the Allison Dress Shop in Wellsville and also of stealing merchandise from McAlister store there. She is accused also of signing the name of R. V. Downer of East Liverpool to an unemployment compensation check.

Three men who stole a safe with money from a Westville filling station entered guilty pleas and each drew bonds of $1,000.

Joseph E. Crum of Beloit RD 1, Kenneth Kinser of Salem and Joseph Shields are charged with burglary at the gas station operated by Charles Thomas.

The only other defendant who pleaded guilty was Edward Melberg, 21, of Pittsburgh, whose bond Judge Sharp continued from the Wellsville municipal court at $15,000. Melberg was indicted for armed robbery at Wellsville.

Defendants who will stand trial for alleged crimes unless their pleas of not guilty are changed are:

Ralph Newtz, 26, of Midland, and

New Library Trustee Named

Mary Bowman Chosen By School Board

Miss Mary Bowman of 430 Highland Ave. was appointed to the Salem Public Library Board of Trustees last night by the Board of Education to fill the unexpired term of Mrs. Frederick J. Emery, who has resigned.

Miss Bowman will serve until March 31, 1959.

In other action last night, the board appointed Mrs. Betty Gantz as secretary - bookkeeper in the Board of Education office. She replaces Mrs. Edna Stewart who resigned.

4th St. To Get Kitchen

A committee composed of Orein Naragon, Robert Heddleston and Dr. Donald Lease was directed to equip a kitchen in Fourth Street School at a cost not to exceed $1,500.

Harmon Zepernick displayed a model kitchen to the board which he said could be installed at the school for about $2,000. The board decided not to install some of the cupboards at this time but approved plans to place in the kitchen two sinks, a waste disposal, cabinets, plumbing, lights, coffee urn, refrigerator and range.

The kitchen will be used by the teachers and for school and P.T.A. meetings.

Also authorized by the board was an expenditure of $450 plus installation costs, for two glass basketball banking boards in the Salem School pupils.

Children In Slums Less Likely To Get Disease

Paralytic polio may be largely a "prosperity" disease, the American Academy of Pediatrics was told today.

Children and adults living in prosperous, uncrowded areas may be more likely to get it than those living in slums and other crowded regions, said Dr. David Bodian of the Johns Hopkins University in a report to the academy's 23rd annual meeting.

Reason? Residents of crowded areas are widely exposed to polio virus in infancy, and most of them get an intestinal infection that immunizes them against a later paralytic attack on the nervous system.

But Dr. Bodian said that while problems still remain, advances in the understanding of polio and in the conceivable means of vaccination against it make it "not too optimistic to hope that the result will be the early control of epidemic poliomyelitis."

He told the meeting of the nation's top children's doctors: "In populations where the (polio) virus is widespread due to crowding of unhygienic conditions and infection occurs in infancy in most individuals, those who escape paralysis are made immune permanently. . . . There is evidence that in such populations virus is widespread so that infection and immunity against all three types of (polio virus) is acquired early in life.

"The virtual absence of paralytic disease in those above the age of infancy is convincing evidence of the fact that inapparent (infectious) infection immunizes

Nike Operation Center Chosen

Ravenna Arsenal Is Choice Of Army

CLEVELAND (AP)—The headquarters for anti-aircraft and guided missile installations protecting Cleveland, Pittsburgh, and Buffalo has been moved to Ravenna Arsenal, near Ravenna, Ohio.

Rig. Gen. Louis T. Heath, commanding officer of the 53rd Anti-Aircraft Brigade Headquarters, said yesterday his command, which takes in those areas, had moved out of its former headquarters at Swarthmore, Pa.

Some 80 officers and enlisted men are involved in the move.

Under a new Army reorganization plan, Gen. Heath said, his command now will take an anti-aircraft and Nike installations in Pittsburgh and in the Niagara-Buffalo area and those scheduled for Cleveland.

Ravenna was selected as control center headquarters because of its nearness to all three locations, Gen. Heath said.

About 80 officers and enlisted men were involved in the move. This is the personnel that would be responsible for plotting strategy and giving the order to fire the deadly Nike missiles should an enemy air attack come.

While work on Nike installations in Pittsburgh and the Niagara-Buffalo area is already under way, opposition to the Army's selection of sites is holding up construction of the multi-million-dollar bases here.

Gen. Heath said he was making a study of alternate sites for the controversial Edgewater Park base in Cleveland.

The study was requested by Cleveland's Mayor Anthony J. Celebrezze, who has expressed vehement disapproval of the breakup of the downtown park area to build the missile launching installation.

Fund For Area Tornado Victims Reaches $3,816

CANTON, Ohio (AP)—A fund drive for victims of a tornado which struck near Minerva last Thursday night has brought in $3,816. The campaign will be continued through this week. Most of the proceeds will go to Mr. and Mrs. James Smiley whose three-year-old daughter, Carrie, was killed when their farmhouse collapsed. The Smileys and a 13-month-old son were injured.

New York Port Hit By Strike

2nd Costly Walkout Begins In Year

NEW YORK (AP)—The Port of New York, largest and busiest in the world, was hit today by a longshoremen's strike, just six months after their last costly walkout ended.

The new strike threatened to tie up once more all 159 piers along the port's 350-mile waterfront, except military docks in Brooklyn and Staten Island.

This time the International Longshoremen's Assn. (ILA) struck to back up demands for back pay and welfare benefits. The last strike, which had nothing to do with wages, was the outgrowth of bitter, year-long rivalry between the ILA and an AFL union.

The ILA called the present strike for last night and ordered picket lines formed this morning.

The first big ships to run into the strike zone were the Queen Mary, with 1,809 passengers, and the Independence, with 972 passengers aboard.

As in past strikes, stevedores of the steamship lines were on hand to take the line when the ships berth and to help passengers with their luggage.

The Hudson River piers, where most luxury liners dock, are usually manned by the ILA's big Local 824. This local was the first to report a unanimous vote last night in favor of a strike, rejecting an employers' contract offer.

Report of a similar vote quickly followed from Anthony (Tony) Anastasia, boss of Brooklyn locals with 2,500 dock worker members. Other locals throughout the huge port quickly fell in line and shortly before midnight ILA President William V. Bradley announced that 19 locals had followed the union's wage scale committee recommendation without a single dissenting vote.

Except for four pier gangs that walked out at midnight in Newark, N.J., there was little strike activity during the night. The main impact came in the morning in Manhattan, Brooklyn and Staten Island and in Hoboken, Jersey City and

The ILA, an independent union since it was ousted by the AFL more than a year ago as allegedly dominated by racketeers, was certified last August by the National Labor Relations Board as sole bargaining agent for the port's 25,000 longshoremen. It won a slim victory over the AFL International Brotherhood of Longshoremen in a representation election held in May.

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—George Burns and Gracie Allen invited 16 friends to their house last night to watch their first filmed telecast in color on the Burns' color-receiving set.

The guests played bridge.

Patrol Plane Limp Across Pacific

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Eleven men threw all their baggage into the ocean and even tossed out parts of the plane in helping a Navy patrol bomber limp on one of its two engines for half of the 2,400 miles from Honolulu.

The plane landed safely yesterday at Half Moon Bay, south of here.

At that, the fliers heard the one good engine sputter 400 miles out when the Neptune was 1,000 feet above the Pacific. Only a quick adjustment of fuel mixture prevented a crash into the sea.

The port engine caught fire when the Neptune was 50 miles beyond the halfway "point of no return." The pilot, Lt. Robert E. Combs, 25, of Denver, feathered the engine and the wind blew out the fire.

Boy Splits With Girl, Drives Car Into Hill

EASTON, Md. (AP)—Forrest Denneau, 17, drove his car at high speed into a dirt bank yesterday, state police said.

In the wreckage of the car, they said, was a note to a girl whom Denneau had broken up with the previous night. It said he intended to crash his car into the dirt bank at 70 miles an hour.

Denneau was not killed, though. He was found crawling along a road near the crash scene with a broken jaw, cuts and possible internal injuries.

Bender, Rhodes Castigate Dems

Candidates Combine In Drive For Election

CINCINNATI (AP)—The top two men on the Ohio Republican ticket combined their oratorical talents last night to plead for election of Republicans to the statehouse and Congress.

George H. Bender, congressman who wants to be senator, and James A. Rhodes, state auditor with ambitions to be governor, spoke to 1,200 Hamilton County precinct workers and other GOP friends.

The audience was split into two groups at a Cincinnati hotel and the candidates shuffled from room to room making their pitch.

Bender castigated the Democratic Party as a "party of suspicion." Rhodes blasted the administration of Gov. Frank J. Lausche, running for his fifth term, as one of waste and extravagant spending.

"The Democratic Party has a well established reputation as a party of suspicion," Bender asserted. "We saw its carefully conceived strategy to blacklist business, to array class against class, to pit workers against management. Republican Party leaders believe that the interests of the American nation point in an entirely different direction."

Bender is running against Sen. Thomas Burke, a Democrat, for the unexpired term of the late Robert A. Taft.

The Democratic Party must not regain control of Congress in the November election because of its "complete failure to prevent Communist infiltration into our government," Bender said. "Those who regard communism in Washington as a 'red herring' are too blind to be entrusted with control of our government."

Rhodes pledged no new taxes if elected. "State expenditures today are huge," he said. "There is no visible reason for a higher sales tax or, for that matter, higher taxes on real estate or on the business of the people."

"We can live within our income by trimming off the personnel fat, eliminating bad practices, applying sound business principles to state operations and by weeding out duplications in many fields."

"I will strenuously oppose any new taxes as governor of Ohio. I am convinced that none will be needed on the state level in the immediate future."

In the past 20 years the death rate for U.S. boys 5 to 14 years old has been cut from 158 to 47 per 100,000 a year and for girls from 126 to 37.

Hunston Says Hays Erred In Seaway Vote

ST. LOUIS (AP)—Praising the Eisenhower administration and the 83rd Congress for achieving the St. Lawrence Seaway, Attorney Walter Jay Hunston of Salem said here last night the 18th District's present congressman "has in fact failed the working man and industry in our district" in not working and voting for the Seaway act.

The Salem attorney, the Republican candidate for Congress, said "every President since Warren G. Harding has urged the seaway's approval, considering it vital to America."

"Had I been a member of Congress when the vote came up for the St. Lawrence Seaway," Mr. Hunston said, "I would have voted yes." He said his opponent, Rep. Wayne Hays, failed to vote for the measure.

Prize Bull Routs TV Announcer Fair Official

TULSA, Okla. (AP)—Reford Stout of Orlando, member of the Future Farmers of America, was being interviewed about his champion bull in a live telecast over KOTV at the fair here.

Evidently the camera had moved too close, the lights were too bright and announcer Jack Alexander looked too unfriendly.

The bull made a lunge and Alexander dropped the microphone and ran. Fair public relations man Arnold Young picked up the mike and gave a play-by-play description, but the bull turned and grounded him in the end zone, ripping his trousers.

The telecast went unannounced until Stout and his companions brought the star animal under control.

Wiley To Push 9-Power Pact

Says Senate Would OK Bill Next Month

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Wiley (R-Wis.) said today he thinks the Senate would quickly approve the new nine-power agreement to re-arm West Germany if the administration should submit it at next month's session.

Wiley, chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, said in an interview he had not discussed the question with Secretary of State Dulles but that he thought the administration might seek early Senate action to give the whole plan added impetus in Europe.

"We would be glad to get it," he said. "My view is that the agreement substantially meets the desires of the Senate."

The agreement worked out in London to restore West Germany's sovereignty and permit her to re-arm involves a complicated series of treaties and revisions to existing treaties.

The Senate presumably will be asked, diplomatic sources said, to give its consent to the entry of West Germany into the North Atlantic Treaty Organization, may also have to pass on a rearrangement of relations between Germany and the present occupying powers, the United States, Britain and France. Other portions of the agreement probably will call for action only by European parliaments.

The Senate is on notice to meet Nov. 8 to consider a move to censure Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis.) for certain aspects of his official conduct. The session is not limited to that subject however.

Diplomatic observers, meanwhile, said the greatest immediate effect of the London agreement on West Germans probably will be assurance that the large measure of freedom they already enjoy is theirs to keep.

Most limitations on sovereignty that could press on the lives of ordinary Germans already have been relaxed, formally or informally. This is why, observers said, the principal immediate German effects of the London agreement may be largely psychological.

Minister Pays $42 For Parishioners Tickets

COUNCIL BLUFFS, Iowa (AP) — The Rev. J. T. Moriarty of St. Patrick's Church here paid off $42 in traffic parking tickets for his parishioners.

During services Sunday, he told all car owners whose cars were ticketed while they were attending services to bring the tickets to him. There were 42 of them at $1 each.

The cars were ticketed because they were parked on the wrong side of the street past the church on which parking is limited to one side only.

Mayor William Keenan said he will ask the City Council to strike out the limitation on the church street.

Democrats Map Ohio Platform For Election

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Ohio Democrats, meeting in closed session yesterday to draft a party platform, will present it to some 1,000 delegates at the state convention here today.

Reports from the 23-member platform drafting committee disclosed disagreement over planks stating party principles for the Nov. 2 election. But the Ohio State Journal this morning said the platform would include a pledge to amend the state's public utility rate-making provisions on grounds that present provisions favor utilities over the consumer.

The platform committee heard proposals from Paul F. Ward of Columbus, attorney general candidate, who said he asked a plank calling for a cleanup of the bingo issue. He advocates submission to voters of a proposed change in the State Constitution to approve or reject legalizing the game popular with church and fraternal groups.

Harry R. Meredith of Lima, state central committee head, presided at sessions of the platform group. Howard M. Metzbaum of Cleveland, former state senator, was secretary.

Sen. Thomas A. Burke will deliver the keynote address at today's session.

Gov. Frank J. Lausche will give the principal address tonight. He seeks an unprecedented fifth term.

Burke, Lausche's interim appointee to the late Republican Robert A. Taft's Senate seat, is the party nominee for the last two years of Taft's term.

Other convention participants include State Chairman Eugene H. Hanhart of Dover, Mayor M. E. Sensenbrenner of Columbus; former Lt. Gov. George D. Nye of Waverly and Mrs. Bernice Pyke of Cleveland.

Nye is the nominee for lieutenant governor again this year. Mrs. Pyke is president of the Federated Democratic Women of Ohio. The federation has scheduled sessions here today and tomorrow.

Fire Prevention Week Being Observed

National Fire Prevention Week, set aside by Presidential proclamation, is being observed throughout the nation this week. The annual observance of the great Chicago fire of Oct. 8, 1871, is designed to serve as a reminder of the great loss of life and property caused by fire each year.

In Salem, as part of the observance, Fire Chief Clarence Wright will conduct an extensive inspection of all public buildings, checking on fire hazards. Fire drills, witnessed by members of the fire department, were held in all Salem schools Thursday.

According to figures released by the National Fire Protection Association, a non-profit fire safety group, more than 100,000 persons have been killed in the past decade by fire. In the United States about 12,000 persons die each year in fires, with old persons and children of the pre-school age the principal victims.

In 1953, the combined fire loss for the United States and Canada totaled over one billion dollars.

Careless smoking and handling of matches is the chief cause of home fires, causing nearly a third of them, records reveal. Causing 25 per cent of all home fires are overheated furnaces and heaters, followed by the misuse of electricity, especially fuses, kitchen hazards, careless use of gasoline and kerosene and the storing of hot coals and ashes in wooden or cardboard containers.

Everything Except A Hitler

The agreement in London on restoring sovereignty to the part of Germany not occupied by the Soviet Union seems to cover every possibility except the one most to be feared — the rise of another Hitler, promising militant action to restore German prestige.

If that were to happen, it would have to be dealt with according to the mood and resources of the future moment. These might be inadequate, as they were when the original Hitler screamed for restoration of Germany's rights and territories. The nine men who initiated the London agreement for their government are taking a calculated risk. Premier Mendes-France, acting as his own foreign minister, has risked his political life. In Britain, the Churchill government also is under fire for its part in the agreement.

Yet, Britain was one of the signers of the Brussels Treaty, which pledged it, France, Belgium, the Netherlands and Luxembourg to come to another's defense in the event of attack. In effect, the London agreement is an enlargement of the Brussels Treaty, framed in 1948. It adds the United States, West Germany, Italy and Canada to the five original signatories.

Actually, therefore, the new thing that came out of the London meeting was the promise to West Germany of the right to establish its own military defense, instead of depending on the presence of American, British and French troops to maintain security. This is to be done by slow stages, but when it finally has been done Germany will be once more a sovereign power, presumably the strongest in Europe.

It will have for the first time a military alliance with the United States. It will be eligible for membership in the North Atlantic Treaty Organization. It will be allied with its traditional enemy, France. It will be a cornerstone in proposed plans for a United States of Europe.

In return for these things, West Germany is pledged to forego the use of military power to reunite its territory and to settle disputes. It is pledged to support the United Nations and to resist the temptation to experiment with nuclear fission.

The prospect of security is brighter than it was before London. It would be brighter than it has been at any time in the 20th century if there were no misgivings about what another Hitler might be able to do with the theme that Germans owe it to themselves and the world to throw off all restraints on their manifest destiny.

For Congress To Think About

It is not surprising that few applications are being received to join the first class of cadets at the new Air Force Academy being set up in Colorado.

The net effect of the publicity that has been given so far to this attempt to duplicate the academies which furnish the bulk of the officer manpower to the professional Army and Navy is to leave most young men uncertain of the existence of an Air Force Academy. They do not know how to apply to join something that still has not been built.

It has taken generations of tradition to develop the appeal of West Point and Annapolis — and they are in trouble, themselves. The Army/Navy/Air Force Journal says, reflecting the attitude of the Pentagon, that congressmen must help the armed services do something about a trend away from professional military careers.

As far as aviation is concerned, it seems plausible that some of the romance has gone out of it as its techniques have grown out of the stage of wild adventure into scientific certainty. But that would not explain what apparently is happening to the careers of soldiers and sailors, long since out of the wild-adventure stage.

That might have to be explained by the impression which has become widespread that professional militarists, besides being expected to go into battle if necessary, are subject to more than a fair share of the uncertainties of modern life. They have no chance to protect themselves from the whims and vagaries of politicians, taxpayers, other militarists and the gods of war.

They launch upon these risky careers, moreover, for relatively low pay. While it seems paradoxical that potential fighting men should think about security, there is a point at which even a fighting man begins to wonder whether the game is worth the candle.

Congressmen have something to think about; no doubt about it.

About 750,000,000 pencils are sold in the U. S. yearly. Coming right down to the point, think of all the breaks we get.

Finger Of Guilt

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Allies Still Blind To Treachery In Own Houses

Were tens of thousands of American lives sacrificed in Korea as a result of treachery inside either the French or the British governments?

Was America's military planning with respect to warding off intervention by the Communist Chinese armies in Korea leaked to Soviet Russia and Communist China?

Was the war in Indochina won by the Communists because they were being constantly advised by spies from inside the French government just what the strategy and composition of the French forces were?

THESE BECOME pertinent questions now as the following news developments are reported:

1. Two officials inside the French government who had access to the secrets of the French National Defense Council — top most military planning body — have confessed that they supplied information regularly to the Communists.

2. Gen. Van Fleet, former commander of American troops in Korea, told the Senate Internal Security subcommittee that the Red China government most assuredly must have known that the United States had in 1950 ordered its forces not to fly over Manchuria either for reconnaissance or to bomb the bases beyond the Yalu River. Knowing this, Gen. Van Fleet says, the Red China government had no hesitancy in ordering the attack against American forces. He said also that "some embassy source" may have conveyed the secret information to the Peiping government.

3. Corroboration of Gen. Van Fleet's theory was given in a letter written in April 1953 to Sen. Byrd, by Gen. MacArthur and read last week into the record of the Senate Internal Security subcommittee. It said in part:

"My own military estimate was that with our largely unopposed air forces with their atomic potential capable of destroying at will bases of attack and lines of supply north as well as south of the Yalu River, no Chinese military commander would dare hazard the commitment of large forces on the Korean peninsula. The risk of their destruction through lack of supply would be too great.

"But by one process or another, it was conjectured by or conveyed to the Red Chinese that even though they entered the fray in large force it would be under the sanctuary of being relieved from any destructive action of our military forces within their areas. Such a limitation upon our military forces within their areas has no precedent either in our history or, so far as I know, in the history of the world.

"The results were disastrous beyond imagination and are still incalculable. When the Chinese Communists actually struck without warning and my orders to destroy the bridges at their points of entry over the Yalu into Korea were immediately countermanded from Washington, I realized for the first time the extraordinary decision which had been made to deny me the use of my full military power to safeguard the lives of my soldiers and the safety of the Army."

GENERAL MARSHALL, who was secretary of defense at the time of the historic hearings in May 1951 concerning the dismissal of Gen. MacArthur, testified before the Senate Armed Services Committee that the American Far Eastern command had been forbidden by directives sent him through the U.S. Joint Chiefs of Staff to do any reconnoitering or bombing beyond the Manchurian border.

"Secretary Marshall also revealed that on Nov. 13, 1950, after the Chinese intervention the United States asked the 13 other governments which had troops under the U.N. command in Korea for permission to lift these restrictions but they voted solidly against it. Thereafter came the major movement of the Red China armies inside Korea resulting in the bulk of the American casualties.

It was a military secret of the greatest importance to know what the United Nations troops would or would not do. The Communists, of course, had their agents stationed in high places on the Allied side.

Thus Donald MacLean who was in charge of the so-called American desk in the British Foreign Office handled most all of the secret and confidential messages which went from the Washington government to Great Britain in the intimate consultations which were going on in those days with respect to the conduct of the Korean war.

WHEN MacLEAN fled with Guy Burgess, another Communist in the British diplomatic service, to somewhere behind the Iron Curtain, Dean Acheson, then secretary of state, is reported to have exclaimed to a newspaperman who told him the news: "My God, they knew everything."

Since MacLean and Burgess stayed on the job in London until May 25, 1951, they were in a position throughout the fateful autumn of 1950 and the winter months of 1951 — when the British government under Clement Attlee was pressing for further restrictions, if not the removal, of Gen. MacArthur — to learn the inside moves.

Many people in Great Britain and France during the last five years have been pooh-poohing the Communist menace and joining the "left wing" chorus about how Sen. McCarthy's crusade against Communists has "lowered American prestige." It begins to look as if British and French public opinion has not yet been aroused to the dangers of treachery inside their own governments. American boys have paid with their lives the penalty of that neglect by our allies.

Scores for support may be as much due to absences as to opposition to the President on some legislative enactments. Support and opposition scores total 100 per cent only if an individual voted on all roll call tests. Most absences were due to illness, official business, or vigorous primary election campaigns.

Scores for the entire 83rd Congress, 1953-54, generally were in the same relationship as 1954 alone.

Republicans in the Senate as a whole gave Mr. Eisenhower support 73 per cent of the time, Democrats 38 per cent in 1954. Republican opposition was shown 16 per

"THE ONLY PROBLEM WHICH REALLY INTERESTS US, MISTER, IS: — HOW CAN WE GET REMARRIED?"

Without American Aid-- Then What?

By GEORGE SOKOLSKY

At the end of World War II, the British were broke and they borrowed $3,750,000,000 from the United States for the purpose of getting started after a devastating war.

This loan is, of course, lost in the shuffle of international politics. Since then the United States has donated between 50 and 60 billion dollars, the exact amount being difficult to calculate because some of these contributions were hidden in commercial arrangements of various types. Some day, a researcher may be able to work out the precise amount of the American gift to the British people.

The explanation to the American taxpayer was that the British were short of dollars and that the American dollar had become the principal world currency.

To get on their feet, the British needed American dollars. To purchase what was necessary for their reconstruction and rehabilitation, they needed American dollars.

THE AMERICAN people, out of their taxes, gave them the dollars. It was a free will offering. The British, to some extent regarded it as the dumping of American goods to keep our factories going and therefore no gift at all.

Now the so-called dollar gap is closed and the British have become independent not only economically but politically. In fact, the British feel so strong that they risk the friendship of the United States by a diplomacy designed not only to reject American leadership but to damage American interests.

London is now seeking to recapture its long held supremacy in the economic world. The major objective is to restore the pound sterling, first to a position of universal convertibility, and then to the position of the supreme currency of the world, replacing the American dollar.

By Galbraith

Copyright 1954 by NEA Service, Inc. T. M. Reg. U. S. Pat. Off.

The London "Economist" makes the point:

"London's pretensions to supremacy have been questioned twice within the span of a generation — both by cynics at home and aspirants abroad. After each world war the damage done to sterling, to Britain's status in world commerce and to the technical apparatus of the London market has seemed for a time to be so nearly irreparable as to justify these doubts. But now it can safely be said that each time the predictions of decay or decline have been falsified."

THE BRITISH are justified in crowing over this achievement. It is a remarkable product of financial know-how. That it puts our financiers, who held the leadership and lost it to shame is no fault of the British.

Great Britain had lost her creditor position; she found a method of obtaining dollars without becoming a debtor to us, largely by obtaining dollars for nothing, never to be repaid.

Whoever invented this method, from Lend - Lease through the Marshall Plan to European Military Aid, was serving Great Britain admirably, even if it placed a heavy burden upon the American people. If the United States now finds in Great Britain an able and even superior competitor, it can only be said that they took advantage of their opportunities and we did not.

The British, in discussing the present advantage, omit to mention American aid and the colo-nal amount of such aid. Rather the "Economist" attributes Great Britain's wonderful success to:

"First and foremost is the fact that the mechanism and the tradition of international banking inherited from the past are still intact. London's close integration of financial institutions of every kind — banks with branches or agencies throughout the world, the acceptance houses, the discount market, the bullion and foreign exchange dollars, insurance brokers, the shipping and commodity markets and the rest — is one unmatched by any other mercantile or financial capital in the world."

NEW YORK is supposed to have similar institutions, but admittedly New York bankers are not the equals of London bankers who possess a greater freedom of action and therefore must think more clearly.

When a bureaucratic bank examiner can criticize a bank's loan policies because he does not understand them, bankers tend to become timid. British, German and Japanese money - lenders, often using American money, are doing a land office business in Mexico and in South American countries where we ought to be having our way.

The answer is that money-lending, which is the heart of banking, must be done by smart and courageous men.

The British have always produced such men in each generation; we have thought of banks as depositories rather than as risk-taking money-lenders.

Law Enforcement

By TRUMAN TWILL

In Saudi Arabia, which includes most of the Arabian peninsula, the authorities have a drastic idea about handling reckless drivers.

They convert them into wreckless drivers if they die trying — the drivers. A government decree says any driver who causes an accident that results in death will be executed, regardless of who he is. If the accident is non-fatal, the driver is cooled off in the pokey for a year and never permitted to drive again.

Here is the old argument about severity of punishment whether or not it is a deterrent to wrongdoing. Actually, it never was severity of punishment that cooled off would-be criminals so much as it was certainty of punishment. And that will continue to be true.

The trouble with traffic law enforcement, as all of us can testify, is spottiness. It has been proved again and again in the United States that traffic hazards diminish in direct ratio to certainty of enforcement. In reverse, it has been proved just as conclusively that traffic hazards increase in direct ratio to lack of enforcement.

But there wouldn't be enough money in the country to hire enough law enforcers to do the job right. The only solution to the problem, therefore, in a country that believes in the dignity of the individual is personal law enforcement. There is an interesting test anyone can give himself to determine where he stands.

It is to see a stop sign on an untraveled country road late at night with no one else in sight and learn what happens.

It is to come to a stop sign in broad daylight with nothing in sight and see what happens.

It is to come to a traffic light in the country in the middle of the night with a clear view, nothing in sight anywhere, the light still against you and learn what happens.

It is to brush the fender of a parked car, with no witnesses to the mishap, and find out what happens.

It is to pass up a couple of signs warning you to take it easy because of something unknown that lies ahead and see what happens.

It is to need a parking place with none in sight except a spot in front of a fireplug in a neighborhood where no policemen are likely to be nosing around and to see what happens then. How did the personal law enforcement work?

The only thing that makes it possible for millions of us to drive automobiles without a rate of carnage so ghastly it would cause the automobile to be outlawed, which is the virtual effect of the decree in Saudi Arabia, is personal law enforcement.

To the extent that personal enforcement is breaking down, the problem gets worse in the United States. If it ever breaks down completely, it won't be safe to drive a car at all. The insurance companies couldn't stand the gaff in that event and no citizen in his right senses would take the risk.

There are days like that now, when citizens in their right minds prefer to stay home and read about the traffic carnage in the next day's paper.

Thoughts For Today

If a ruler hearken to lies, all his servants are wicked.—Prov. 29:12.

Habitual liars invent falsehoods not to gain any end or even to deceive their hearers, but to amuse themselves. It is partly practice and partly habit. It requires an effort in them to speak the truth.—Hazlitt.

Once Over

By H. I. PHILLIPS

Those TV Commercials

Commercials during the world series were not what they should be. We hereby sound a call for variety and for plugs more appropriately spaced. For instance, at the moment when both Mays and Thompson run out from under their hats, as they do so often, why not a close-up and an announcer demanding "Which one has the Toni?" When Leo Durocher and the umpire, their faces purple, are chin to chin, how about "Yes, folks if you really want that schoolgirl complexion that dainty glow of genuine beauty, etc., etc.?"

We make these further suggestions for the future:

1—Willie Mays, Dusty Rhodes, Al Rosen or Al Smith put one over the fence with the bases full. "Folks, now is the time for a delightful autumn tour, one of those long trips that bring real comfort, enjoyment and relief from tension. Take advantage of our guided tour offer now, etc."

2—The bases are loaded, there are two out and a pinch-hitter has taken his place at bat. "Do you really want things cleaned up? Do you insist that you get something that will act swiftly and give the best results? Etc."

3—A pitcher, after a brilliant eight innings, finds the bases suddenly filled, nobody out and Murderer's Row coming up. "Let me assure you that when you feel let down tired and maybe a little discouraged, nothing will lift you up and save the situation like a big glass of ice-cold TEA."

4—A proesting player is being thumbed out of the game. "Are you sure you are getting what you really want in a deep freeze? Have you looked into all the various types and made sure that the one you are getting is the very best?"

5—The pitcher is starting on the long walk from mound to club house after being taken out of the box before 60,000 fans. "Do you appreciate speed, a fast pickup and the ability to get away fast in an emergency? Do you crave the wonderful feeling you get when rolling through the great open spaces? Then what you need is a 1955 model So-And-So, etc."

6—A base-runner thrown out by a mite is kicking up the dirt and telling the umpire he beat the ball easily and wasn't even tagged. "In but the durable type will suffice, then is "Wherever top-quality brass is needed and not the time to order from the company that produced the brass for some of the finest and oldest structures in America. . . . We offer the above in all seriousness. There are other things in life than razor blades, cigarettes and beer."

President Eisenhower just "passed his physical" and never felt better in Adlai Stevenson's life. . . . Ike went around the doctors examination in four under par.

Throughout the series we kept humming it "How are you fixed for Mays?"

A big insurance company, reacting to hurricane claims, has established its own weather bureau. . . . Is it implying that Carol and Edna put something in small type?

Mel Ferrer and Audrey Hepburn, happy honeymooners, say they want to be alone. . . . They mean with the crowds kept down a few thousand per appearance.

"Small Hotel" one of the loveliest of melodies, is still captivating in the revival of "On Your Toes." . . . It could have been the song that really gave America the roadside out "motel."

"The Barefoot Contessa" gives movie audiences the first big demonstration of Three Dimension Cynicism. . . . During much of the writing the author must have had his shoes off, too.

Great comment by Willie Mays when asked about a wonderful catch, "I don't know when I'm making a great catch. I just try to get the jump on the ball and go get it."

Does Overweight Affect Your Disposition?

It certainly does. When your weight is normal you feel better, look better, sleep better, in fact, you live longer. To carry around excess weight can't help but affect your frame of mind, and it can't help your disposition either. If you have made up your mind to reduce, read this letter from Mrs. H. Frey, 2104 Chesterland Ave., Lakewood 7, Ohio. Mrs. Frey writes: "After using Rennie Concentrate for only a short two or three weeks I noticed a great difference, not only in my weight but in my general health. It reduced that feeling of bloated and made me feel much younger. Since using Rennie, I have lost 50 lbs. without any inconvenience. My friends all tell me how much better I look and at my age of 44 that is music to my ears."

The social and physical discomfort of being overweight with this effective home recipe. It's easy—no trouble at all and costs little. Just go to your drugstore and ask for four ounces of liquid Rennie Concentrate. Pour this into a pint bottle and add enough grapefruit juice to fill the bottle. Then take two tablespoonsfuls twice a day. That's all there is to it. No diets to complicate your meal planning. No expensive vitamins to fortify your system from weakness while going without food for you can eat normally. If the very first bottle doesn't show the simple easy way to lose pounds of bulky fat and help regain slender, more youthful curves—if it reduces excess fat doesn't seem to disappear almost like magic just return the empty bottle to the manufacturer for your money back. Insist on Rennie.

3 R's Getting More Expensive; School Districts Require Aid

NEW YORK (AP)—The three R's are getting more expensive. And as a taxpayer you haven't seen anything yet. You'll have to dig still deeper into your pocket to educate the oncoming generation.

Financing is already swamping some local school districts. So states increasingly are taking over more of the burden. The federal government is under pressure for more funds. Tax experts say it adds up to a revolution in American public school tradition.

This year it is costing around nine billion dollars to run the public schools, from kindergarten through high school — more than three times what it cost 25 years ago.

In the next six years, the U. S. Office of Education predicts, there will be nine million more pupils answering the school bells. To house them adequately the taxpayers will have to find, or underwrite, some 20 billion dollars for new classrooms—in addition to the cost of running the schools themselves.

This year the public school system are spending about 2½ billion dollars for new schools and other capital outlays. That is seven times what they spent 25 years ago.

Great shifts in population since World War complicate the problem. Booming suburbs are flooded with young fry more or less receptive to being educated. Conversely, some big city school buildings, like some city church buildings, are gaining enormously in population and industry—and haven't caught up yet in school facilities.

Bumper baby crops are a main factor. But also children are spending more years in school than they used to—at both ends of the school setup. Kindergarten attendance has more than doubled in the last 30 years. High school rolls have more than tripled. Enrollment in the intermediate grades hasn't changed as notably.

Colleges have problems, too. Education-seeking veterans sent college enrollment to a 2½ million peak in 1949. There's a breather right now, but the first of the World War babies are now nearing high school. From 1960 on this crush will be college fodder.

No one quarrels with the need for educating American youth. The headaches come from financing the job. Many school districts have borrowed up to the limit set by state laws. Some are trying to have the assessed valuations of property in their district raised so they can collect more in taxes. Others are plugging for a raise in their legal debt ceiling. Still others are asking their state governments for more funds. Some have a hand out for more federal funds.

The increasing part the state is playing in school financing worries the Tax Foundation, a private research organization. It says the American tradition is local support and control of education. Twenty-five years ago the local school system put up 83 per cent of the money to run the schools, and the state provided 17 per cent. The state's share has climbed above 40 per cent, and the federal governments' taking over control of local school systems. The tax group favors returning ultimate fiscal responsibility and administration from the state to the local school districts, and minimizing federal aid.

As evils which have led to the present financial plight of many districts the foundation cites: "Low assessments, tax rate limitations and exemption of property from the tax base."

THANKS TO MODERN MEDICINE

a sign of the times... gone by!

Few front doors carry such frightening words nowadays. The quarantine today is more on the disease, less on the victim. Thanks to preventive inoculations, children now catch fewer childhood diseases; thanks to new antibiotics, they have a far better chance of recovery. Example: Children today have 75 times the chance of recovery from diphtheria that a child had in the 1920's; 40 times the chance of recovery from whooping cough; 25 times the chance of recovery from measles. PEOPLES DRUG STORES are always ready with the newest drugs whenever doctors call for them. PEOPLES pharmacists compound and dispense only the freshest drugs—skillfully, accurately—and your prescription is priced with uniform economy at any PEOPLES SERVICE DRUG STORE.

DIRKSEN BLASTS STEVENSON

BOWLING GREEN, Ohio (AP)—Sen. Everett M. Dirksen (R-Ill.) yesterday opened a series of Ohio speeches here. He termed Democrat Adlai Stevenson a "political sniper" who "detaches issues" and is "willing to forget the whole picture." He told a GOP luncheon group the Republicans must be prepared to meet the accusations of the Democrats. He and Rep. George H. Bender (R-Ohio), GOP senatorial nominee, spoke at a Republican luncheon.

Over 60 heard Dale Miller speak at Booster Night at Mt. Nebo Friday. He urged that "we cherish the freedoms which were gained by the efforts of our ancestors."

Tom Crawford, accompanied by Miss Geneva Zimmerman, sang two numbers. The dance band, composed of Glen and Raymond Bartholow, Jack Birk and Ernest Tullis, played for group singing and for the square dancing. Joseph Bush of Salem called the dances and Mrs. Bush helped the juveniles.

Recognition was given to the Community service, home economics, and to the social committees. Mrs. Thelma Rockwell thanked the grangers for their support of the home economics projects.

Lunch was served by the committee, Mr. and Mrs. Glen Bartholow and Mr. and Mrs. Earl Girard. At the next meeting Wednesday, Oct. 13, the new officers will be installed.

quests for the drug from several families. However, it is not available at drug stores.

The United Local P.T.A. meeting scheduled for Friday evening has been cancelled due to the polio outbreak in that area.

United Local children who attend Salem High School and have brothers or sisters in the quarantined United Local School have been told by Dr. Panera to remain home this week.

United Local district pupils who attend Salem High School and have no brothers or sisters attending the closed school may continue to attend Salem High. However it is necessary for those students to arrange for their own transportation as the school bus from the district is not being operated this week.

Salem Supt. of Schools E. S. Kerr reports a number of the United Local students made the trip into Salem yesterday and today to attend classes.

Dr. Panera is administering gamma globulin this morning to the United Local children who attend Salem high and who have had contact with the disease.

All 24 county cases have been confined to the northern end of the county, leaving the southern district untouched.

who walked out at McKinley yesterday and demonstrated for three quarters of an hour.

In a noisy session several pupils demanded the 419 Negroes at the school be sent elsewhere. There are 598 white pupils at McKinley.

About 400 other students walked out at Anacostia school, where 43 Negroes are enrolled.

In Baltimore, four representatives of civic groups asked the state's attorney to institute a grand jury probe into present unrest in the public schools in an effort to find out whether any criminal charges should be brought.

The suggestion was made after 2,000 students from several schools skipped classes yesterday and staged boisterous demonstrations against integration. The students paraded for five hours, chanting slogans and carrying signs.

Twice, groups numbering several hundred descended on city hall but quickly moved on at urging of police.

Three adults were arrested. One was identified by police as an "agitator, inciting trouble." But there was no violence.

Dr. John H. Fischer, superintendent of schools, said most schools were operating normally and that the number of absentees was "no greater than on any other day."

At Southern High School, where six persons were arrested Friday after a white man struck a Negro student, school officials reported 491 of the total enrollment of 1,780 in class yesterday. Those attending included most of the 36 Negroes enrolled at the school.

Atty. Gen. H. Albert Young of Delaware said he would try to have the charter of the National Assn. for the Advancement of White People (NAAWP) revoked Tuesday.

He told a newsman he would bring action in the Court of Chancery on the grounds that the NAAWP had violated its Delaware charter by opposing the integration of 11 Negro pupils in Milford High School.

The NAAWP has been a leader among the anti-integration forces. Bryant Bowles, its president, said he would lead a battle for continued segregation in Baltimore similar to his campaign in schools at Milford, Del.

Guilford Grange Committee Chosen

Guilford Grange met recently with Master William Herron presiding.

Mrs. Orva Walton was appointed home economics chairman, with Mrs. Charles Snyder, Mrs. Harold Raley, Mrs. James Rhodes Sr. and Mrs. Donald Mayer assisting her for the next four months. Mrs. Raley was appointed news reporter.

Beginning Oct. 9, Guilford Grange meetings will begin at 8:30 instead of 9 p.m. Members attending future meetings are requested to bring sandwiches or cookies.

There were a number of visitors present from Perry Grange.

The lecture hour featured demonstrations and exhibits by the Hanover 4-H club.

High School gymnasium. Basketball Coach John Cabas requested the glass boards, stating that the team would be faced with them in all tournament games and in many high school games throughout the district.

Cabas said the ball spins differently off the glass board, having a different bounce and slide. The boards will be of three-fourths inch thick clear unbreakable glass. The athletic committee of Heddleston and Lease was directed to make the purchase.

Construction of a shelter for the 20 to 25 children boarding the school bus in Salem Heights was approved. The wooden structure will protect the children from the snow and rain while waiting for the bus at its new stop in that district.

Supt. of Schools E. S. Kerr, Benman Ludwig, Loren Early and Deane Phillips were granted permission to attend the Ohio School Administrators fall conference at Ohio State University Oct. 8-9. The conference theme is to be "The Three R's Plus."

Ludwig, high school principal, also was granted permission to attend the annual autumn meeting of the Ohio High School Principals in Columbus Oct. 15-16.

Supt. Kerr reported that the present school enrollment in the Salem public schools shows an increase of 162 over September of last year. He told the board the enrollment in the kindergartens was up 34 from 1953.

The total public school enrollment this fall was 3,187, Kerr said, compared to 3,025 last September. He also pointed out the increase at St. Paul School where enrollment climbed from 269 last year to 315 this fall, an increase of 46.

Supt. Kerr told the board 1,527 children have signed for insurance now being offered through the school for school accidents.

Mrs. Leitha Astory of Salem, 18th District committeewoman and Attorney James McSweeney of Wellsville, county Republican committee chairman, also spoke.
